HISTORICAL SKETCH OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

By O. B. LEONARD, CITY CLERK.

The purpose of these outline sketches of Plainfield, is to recall some interesting incidents of the past, and collect a few important facts of the present. The practical business man may perhaps be more anxious to know about the place as it is and what it is likely to be, than to be told what were the early scenes and reminiscences of generations ago. Some inquisitive minds will not be satisfied in going back simply to the early days of the aboriginal settlers in 1700, when a few log huts and wigwags were scattered here and there, on this level plain. Such persons might not be contented with the statement that about 1684 industrious Hollanders or Scotchmen, came into possession of the land on which Plainfield is now built, nor with the more remote incident that the shore land now called New Jersey (but then designated by the King of England as "heathen and barbarous regions") was first discovered by white men in 1497. To such antiquarian minds nothing short of some prehistoric facts from the testimony of the rocks will give entire relief; they may not be satisfied until assured that many thousand years before the Mosiac creation, these mountains on the north-west of Plainfield formed the coast line of the continent, and gigantic reptiles left their monstrous foot-prints on the sands of time; that ages afterward, a luxuriant forest of mammoth vegetation existed on these plains for centuries, with no human being to admire the unsurpassed grandeur or walk among the magnificent flowers and foliage.

But as a chronicle of early times, it must suffice if reference is made to no more distant events than those of a comparatively modern period; such events as are found in historical records, or unwritten incidents, handed down by tradition, and verified by the accurate memory of some of the oldest inhabitants. These facts correctly narrated will afford a connected outline view of this locality from the days of our earliest forefathers, and may be of interest to many readers.

EARLY EVENTS.

The beginning of our civilized history commences about 1785, with the erection of the first frame dwelling house. The first grist mill was built 1755, near what is now the Up-town pond, and there remained for 85 years, when it was moved to the present site of the "City Mills." In 1759 Front street was laid out and described as the "road from Scotch Plains to Piscataqua," and in 1760, Peace street was surveyed and defined as the Rahway road and three years afterwards officially laid out by the highway commissioners. The first school house in 1760 was built on the east corner of the main road and the road to Rahway, now Peace street. Till about this period ox-carts were the only vehicles used, but now occasionally wagons were brought into service. In 1764 the water power of Green brook was further utilized by another grist mill in the lower part of the town. Up to this date, 1770, there were only eight dwelling houses in this locality and a population of thirty-five to forty.

During the Revolutionary days some skirmishing occurred here and in this vicinity. In the summer of 1777 General Washington is said to have visited the place and frequented the mountain heights to watch the movements of the enemies' troops. His head quarters with his army of about 8,000 had recently been moved from Morristown to a securely entrenched position near Bound Brook on the ridge overlooking and commanding the country around New Brunswick, where the British were encamped to the number of 15,000, under General Howe. Tradition says that "the rock," a prominent projection on the brow of the mountain just south-west of Plainfield, was a favorite place of rendezvous to which the Father of his Country very often resorted to inspect the operations of the enemy on the plains and watch the reconnoitering parties of the American forces.

A few years after peace was declared, the first meeting house was built by the Society of Friends. It was in 1788 and the same building is now occupied by them on Peace street. By this time the population reached one hundred and the few scattered dwelling houses were located along the main road. The only other thoroughfares were the roads to New Brunswick, now Plainfield avenue, one to Rahway, present Peace street and Broadway, and the mountain road or Somerset street.

A. D. 1800.

At the opening of the nineteenth century Plainfield was still a thinly settled neighborhood with about 200 inhabitants. It was not 'till 1808 when a hat shop was built in the rear of the first dwelling house, that anything like business life was manifest. A few years later in 1808, the United States government established a post-office here and the old stage line, now running for several years past, left its occasional passenger and meagre mail list. A two-story Academy was built in 1812 which served its double purpose for a day school and public hall, till the upper part was destroyed by fire a short time afterward. The First Baptist church was organized and their house of worship erected in 1818 nearly on the site of the present edifice. The population of the village in 1820 is reported to be 450 to 500. The First Presbyterian church was built in 1825 on the same ground the society now occupies. The division of the Society of Friends in the United States, 1828-30, led to the organization of the Orthodox branch in this place and the building of a frame meeting house on Front street, since re-built of brick.

In 1882 the Methodist Episcopal church was constituted and their meeting house erected nearly where the new structure now stands. In 1883 the Plainfield Seminary, a frame building 40x86 feet, was built on the land adjoining the Presbyterian church on the south-west, and the Plainfield Classical Institute, a rival educational internet was organized the following year and the building 66x85 feet commenced in 1884 on a lot opposite the Baptist church. Both buildings are still standing having been converted into private dwellings. This same year the Plainfield Mutual Assurance Fire Company was organized. In 1885 the first newspaper was established, called the Plainfield Herald, with three of its sides printed in New York and said to be the largest paper in the state. It soon suspended for want of patronage and in 1887 was founded The Plainfield Union which still exists in the weekly journal of the Central New Jersey Times. The same year the first bank was chartered, and a new church organization established, the Seventh Day Baptist Society. In 1838 steam power was introduced on the new strap-railroad running through the place from Elizabethtown to Bound Brook and Somerville, to take the place of horse power in use for two years previous. This decade from 1830 to 1840 was marked by considerable activity in general business, and the erection of many new dwellings. The population in 1830 being a little less than 700 had increased in ten years to something more than 1,200. During this period several new streets were laid out and opened, the growth of the place demanding more "front lots" than the main thoroughfare afforded and the three old intersecting roads. The last chronological occurrence of importance which will be mentioned in this connection is the organization of the Public School in 1847, the year after the formation of Plainfield Township, and the erection of the school building in 1848.

With the succeeding events for the next twenty-five years in the history of the place, many now living are personally familiar. From a population of about 2,300 in 1850 there was a rapid increase to 12,000 in 1880, a date which brings the record down to the modern city of many churches, schools, hotels, stores, markets, banks, gas works, telegraphs, telephones, macadamized roads, lighted streets and moderate taxes.

road 24 miles south-westerly from New York city, and on the new through line to Philadelphia, about 90 minutes ride therefrom. It is pleasantly located on a gently sloping plain at an altitude of 100 to 140 feet above tide water. The underlying geological formation of this section of country is red sandstone and shale, and the superincumbent drift material is composed of gravel and sand to a considerable depth, covered with a rich surface loam which affords a fertile soil and a quick healthy drainage. Plainfield has a population of about 13,000 including the inhabitants on both sides of Green brook. Of this number, less than 2,000 are foreigners. It covers an area of 7 square miles or about 4,500 acres as embraced in the territory enclosed by Terrill avenue on the north-east, the city limits on the south-west, and extending from Mountain avenue on the north-west to the eastern limits of the city line.

Plainfield was incorporated a city in 1869. The city proper is divided into four wards, and is governed by a Mayor and Common Council. The municipality is free from any bonded indebtedness. The assessed valuation of personal property and real estate in the limits described (including North Plainfield) is $5,500,000 which is about one-fourth of the true value. The total taxes assessed and collected for city, school, fire and state and county, amount annually to $75,000 to $80,000. There are over 1,600 legal voters in the corporate limits, and about 600 in the North Plainfield district mentioned. The city is lighted with gas and gasoline. Several miles of the main thoroughfares are graded. The railroad passes through the place on an artificial embankment, crossing the streets on substantial iron bridges.

The Fire Department, under the control of a board of managers, is a volunteer organization composed of 246 men, having three good steam fire engines each with hose carriage, one hook and ladder truck, and one hose company. The water supply is from 21 large never failing fire-wells, and the two streams of Green brook and Cedar brook.

There are two weekly newspapers and one daily. The Central New Jersey Times, The Constitutionalist and Daily

Evening News. There are two public halls: Van Deventer Hall with a seating capacity of 800, and Assembly Hall seating 400. The Music Hall Association of the city is just completing one of the handsomest opera house interiors in the state, accommodating an audience of 1200. It is owned by several wealthy stockholders, built and furnished at a cost of $60,000. There are two National Banks with an aggregate capital of $350,000, one Savings Bank, two Fire Insurance Companies and Building and Loan Associations.

HOTELS.

The Hotels of Plainfield will do credit to many a city of much larger pretensions.

"The Netherwood," situated on a charming elevation in the eastern part of the city, is a massive five story brick building with 200 rooms elegantly furnished throughout and complete in all its appointments. It was recently built, 1878, at a cost of $150,000 and is designed for a luxurious summer resort for New York business men and their families.

The Park House erected in 1872 is a large frame structure affording accommodation for 125 guests. Having been thoroughly renovated and re-furnished, this year, it is now under the efficient management of a popular caterer, and is a house well worthy of the first class patronage which it receives.

Force's Hotel is located on North avenue near the depot and is a well conducted house, affording good board for permanent as well as transient guests. It has recently been fitted up with all the modern improvement and heated by steam throughout with gas and running water in every room.

The City Hotel a four story brick building built in 1854, is one of the oldest hotels in the place. It is situated in the business part of the city and conveniently located for transient trade, offering excellent accommodations to families as well as temporary patrons.

Laing's Hotel, established in 1828, is one of the most popular rendezvous in New Jersey. It is a first class house with good appointments and excellent management and always draws a large share of public favor. The hotel has always been a favorite resort of excursion parties from neighboring towns for miles around, and noted throughout the state for its cleanliness and comfort. Connected with the hotel is the largest livery establishment in the city.

Besides these there are the "Farmer's Hotel" and "Somerset House," both well kept and affording good accommodations for man and beast.

EDUCATION.

The educational advantages of the place are of an excellent order and furnish good instruction to both sexes. The private schools are several in number and under the care of experienced teachers. The Plainfield Public School is regarded the banner school of the state and is in charge of a Board of Education and a competent corps of popular instructors. The primary, grammar and high-school departments have enrolled for 1884, the the names of over 1800 pupils and the average attendance has been 900. The Public School in North Plainfield is in the hands of an able and efficient principal with good assistants, and a board of trustees. The board, during the past year, seeing the pressing need of enlarged accommodations for the growing list of school children, (which number 600 with 400 in average attendance) have erected one of the most commodious and complete school houses in the country costing $26,000.

The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific circle has its head quarters in Plainfield. This organization aims at popular education, by promoting habits of reading and study at home in connection with the routine of daily life. The number of pupils is now counted in the thousands all over the civilized parts of both hemispheres.

ECOLESIASTICAL, ETC.

The city is not deficient in its religious and charitable institutions. There are sixteen churches with a membership of about 4,000, besides two or three independent bodies: viz.: 4 Baptist, 2 Presbyterian, 2 Episcopalian, 1 Methodist Episcopal, 1 Congregational, 1 Reformed, 1 German Reformed, 2 Roman Catholic, 2 Society of Friends, 1 Society of Brethren. At Netherwood heights has been built a handsome Union chapel, and at Evona is located the Episcopal church of the Heavenly Rest.

The Young Men's Christian Association organized in 1867, has a numerical strength of over 200. They have a circulating and reference library of 2000 volumes and a free reading room containing many of the best religious and secular publications. Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., is given every season an excellent course of literary and scientific lectures and musical entertainments. The efforts of the Association in philanthropic as well as religious ways are designed to help and elevate the young men of Plainfield.

The Reform Club is a public Temperance organization, legally chartered and working for the moral reformation of all persons addicted to the use of intoxicating drinks. The membership numbers 750 and their permanent headquarters are located at the north corner of Second street and Central avenue.

The Relief Association looks after the needy poor by furnishing help, through an Employment Bureau, to those who are able to work, and dispensing clothing, food, medicines, etc., through a scrutinizing Executive Board of self denying ladies.

The Children's Home, is organized for the care and support of little ones, orphans, half orphans or those whose parents are incompetent to provide for their necessary wants. Their large and comfortable building recently erected and newly furnished complete in sanitary appointments, is located in North Plainfield and is an ornament to the place.

The Holly Tree Inn, is a well patronized resort for the youth of our city where they can find a home-welcome, good promiscuous reading matter and a simple lunch without any evil temptations. It is nearly self sustaining, though needing the sympathy and assistance of a charitable public. It exists in the interests of temperance and is doing a good work under the direction of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The Muhlenberg Hospital is a new enterprise organized in 1878. A Board of Governors have control of the institution which is constantly growing in favor, as an increasing number of patients treated every year testifies.

MANUFACTURES.

The manufacturing interests of Plainfield are increasing slowly, though not on such an extended scale as to give a distinctive character to the place. Encouragement is generously held out by the citizens for the introduction of new departments of labor, and with the growth of the city no doubt the number will be augmented. The largest establishment is the clothing manufactory of Schepfin, Baldwin, Tweedy & Co., which ranks among the first of this class of industry in the United States, both with regard to capital and credit, and the quality and quantity of goods made and sold. The concern employs a great many skilled workmen at the factory and affords steady occupation to scores of others in the neighborhood around.

The Potter Printing Press establishment erected by C. Potter, Jr., is a valuable branch of manufacture which furnishes remunerative employment to about 100 first class mechanics. The machine shop, foundry, work shop and other necessary buildings built of brick, cover nearly an acre of ground. The firm is an old and well established concern, having had their works in Rhode Island for many years.

The Walter Scott Press Works, now nearly completed extend over a large plot of ground. The buildings are among the largest structures of the kind in the United States, and are most complete in all their equipments. The enterprise will furnish employment to three hundred skilled mechanics and manufacture a printing press of surpassing excellence.

The Plainfield Gas Light Co., is an incorporated organization established in 1857. They have several miles of mains laid in the principal streets and are constantly extending them as demand increases.

The City Mills, a four story frame structure, have four run of stone with steam and water power. With their new process machinery just put in, they are manufacturing large quantities of flour of an excellent brand, and other products such as oat meal, corn meal, etc., used in home market and the surrounding suburbs.

The Commercial Mills and Elevator are also extensively engaged in similar products.

There is an Iron and Brass Foundry recently built in 1878, the first of the kind where excellent castings are made by practical mechanics.

An Oil Cloth Factory, located near Richmond street, keeps at steady work over fifty hands, manufacturing exclusively an enameled cloth for carriage trimmings, table covers and the like and turns out a large quantity of stock which finds a ready market in neighboring cities.

There are two machine shops for the manufacture of stationary engines, machinery of various sorts, mechanics' tools and other work in iron and steel.

Among other industries requiring more or less of capital, employing labor and developing the local resources of the place, may be mentioned planing mills, manufacturing sash, doors and blinds, grist mills, consuming the cereals of the farming district of this locality, and other establishments for the manufacture of carriages, confectionery, hats, segars, soap, harness, oil, hoop poles, bricks, etc.; also a steam stone crusher for cracking rock of suitable sizes for macadamizing, besides a Steam Laundry, and the Steam Marble Works.

The mercantile business of Plainfield is as extensive as will be found generally in cities of this size so near to a large commercial metropolis. There is a fair stock of goods of all kinds in the various retail stores and prices compare favorably with other inland cities.

ASSOCIATIONS.

The miscellaneous organizations of the city are numerous enough to meet the wants of all persons. The societies are well officered and generously sustained. The Free Masons occupy their new rooms which are said to be unequalled by any in the state. The Odd Fellows also have a fine lodge room, and the other fraternities are favored with convenient and commodious apartments with good working harmonious membership.

The Washington Monument Association exists with a determined purpose in no distant future, to honor the memory of our great American Chieftain, by erecting a suitable memorial upon the summit of the mountain eminence near the notable rock that bears his name.

A Water Supply Co., was chartered in 1869 which will some day develop the needful improvement so easily secured by a mountain reservoir or from an underground supply of pure and wholesome water. As the city enlarges this will be of great benefit for fire purposes, domestic and manufacturing uses, and as an additional sanitary measure.

An Art Gallery and Library Building is being erected at the generous suggestion of Hon. Job Male and others, and will soon minister to the refined tastes of all lovers of fine arts and intellectual culture.

Already a Public Library and Free Reading Room is established under the laws of this state and sustained by a moderate tax on the property owners of the city. The institution is largely patronized by the working classes and others, consulting its files of papers and books of reference.

The Winfield Scott Post No. 73 of the Grand Army of the Republic, has a vigorous membership which keeps alive the valorous deeds of the Union soldiery, and every year appropriately honors the memory of brave comrades who fell on the field of battle.

The Union Club is an incorporated society for the encouragement and promotion of social qualities, and the development of advanced measures for the best interests of the city of Plainfield. The association holds regular monthly meetings for its subscribers, and provides for occasional receptions and entertainments at the club house. There is an initiation fee of $50 and annual dues of $25 to each member.

The distinctive characteristic of Plainfield is not its manufacturing or commercial interests; but rather its elegant residence property, and the interesting drives on level, shaded streets, under continuous archways of maples and elms made delightful by the well kept, tasteful lawns. The drive on Netherwood heights affords a charming pleasure of endless variety over serpentine roadways, on an undulating surface covered with a natural growth of oaks and chestnuts, passing an unusually attractive class of dwellings and beautified grounds. The Johnston Drive is a macadamized road along the brow of the Blue Ridge range extending from the notch through which Somerset street passes to the picturesque gap in the mountains at Scotch Plains. Some of the highest points on the drive are 800 to 850 feet above the adjacent plain and through many of the clearings the eye can feast upon the magnificent valley, replete with quiet and gentle beauty. And lastly the ride to Washington Rock is another attractive pleasure and well repays any one to visit that upper region of invigorating mountain air, and expansive panoramic landscape. These things with the natural advantages of location have gained for Plainfield the reputation of being a sanitarium free from all epidemics or malaria, where many have checked the progress of physical decay and won back declining health by the genial influence of an exhilarating atmosphere, pure, wholesome water and enlivening surroundings. These circumstances in connection with the local improvements afforded, and the unsurpassed railroad facilities have attracted a larger percentage of New York business men than any other suburban city along the eighteen or twenty lines of travel from the great metropolis.

COLEMAN Business College,

703, 707, 709, 711 and 713, Broad Street,
OCCUPIES THREE BUILDINGS,
NEWARK, NEW JERSEY.

Eleven Reasons why you should attend this Institution:

Because the course of study is just what everybody wants.

Because the methods of teaching are original, practical and interesting.

Because you will learn more here in three months than at any other school in a year.

Because you will not have to wade through a lot of nonsense to get what you want.

Because the teachers are men of experience and ability.

Because it is no place for drones or do-nothings.

Because it has a manly working class of students, from every State in the Union.

Because you can enter at any time, and go right at your work.

Because there is less committing of rules and more reasoning than in any other school.

Because it places more worthy students in positions than all other schools in the State.

Because the scholarship is only $40 for six months, which time is ample for the completion of the business course.

FROM SEVERAL HUNDRED letters received during the past year from former students, nearly all of whom are now successful business men, representing every State in the Union, and which speak more powerfully in our behalf than we could do for ourselves, we submit the following:

From JAS. D. ALLEN, Book-keeper for Charles Garretts, Merchant, Newark, N. J.

It is a pleasure for me to add my testimony to the thousands of others that have graduated under Prof. Coleman. I completed a course of study at Coleman Business College in April last, and have a splendid position with the above gentleman as a book-keeper. My former school secured me a good position as a book-keeper. A friend of mine who attended the college secured a recommendation has since graduated, and has a good position which the college secured for him.

From JAMES E. SMITH, Morris, Illinois.

Am glad to hear of your success, and trust it may continue, for it is a school worthy of success. I got more real knowledge in the three months I spent in your school than I did in an ordinary school in three years. Hope to hear from you by return mail.

From S. B. PARROTT, Book-keeper for Trenton Pottery Co., Trenton, N. J.

Owing to the training received at your college the past winter I have been able to secure a good-paying situation with the above concern. My motto is I owe to yourself. I shall always say a good word for the Coleman College.
